

Because so many new Orchid Enthusiasts have asked, here's why I recommend hybrids. Mature, blooming size hybrids have several distinct advantages over species plants.

First, while they have their regular season, when most of their blooms are produced, many will bloom once or twice again before the year is over. Second, having been bred for form, color, substance, vigor and profuseness of bloom, they usually have these advantages over the species that formed their background. Third, the plants, having been grown "in captivity" from babyhood, are better looking than plants just imported from the South American jungles. They are as easy to grow, and much more satisfactory to own, for the above reasons. They are worth the little extra they cost!

Many of the hybrids on this list are in sheath as these pages go to press but, as some bloom and others start forming their sheaths, that is a constantly changing condition. Whenever possible, I fill your order with plants in sheath. You can help by choosing hybrids whose season is approaching; by naming a second choice; or by telling me the color and season wanted, and allowing me to select for you.

All the following are nice looking plants in 5½ or 6-inch pots (according to how the hybrid grows) and have one or more new leads on which they should bloom.

- # 4D LC WILMOSS (C. Mossiae X Lc Helen Wilmer) — Delicate to dark rose-lavender with darker lip; gold throat. Fragrant. Spring or twice. $25.00

When preparing a wholesale order of $150.00 or more, ask about trade discount. Shipment of these plants will be by Railway Express, shipping charges collect, unless otherwise directed.

Hobbyists who would like to have your hobby "pay its way", ask about my "ALWAYS AN ORCHID IN BLOOM" plan.

Or, send ten dollars and direct me to choose a Sample Hybrid for you from the above list that has buds well formed in the sheath. I will unconditionally guarantee the plant I choose for you will bloom within two weeks after it reaches you.

At the same time I will tell you how my plan works and how you can make your Orchids pay their way. This "guaranteed to bloom" offer limited to customers in continental U.S.A.
